

DEPUTY MARSHAL SLAIN BY ASSASSIN

CUSTER SENT TO STEUBENVILLE TO OPEN INQUIRY

Deputy Prevatt Found in Alley Shot in Head; Hands in Pockets

TO NAME SUSPECTS

Nolan, Democratic Chief, Says Politics Might Have Caused Murder

Deputy U. S. Marshall Bryan Custer, W. High-st., former deputy sheriff, today had been instructed by Marshal R. Kenneth Kerr to hurry to Steubenville to hunt the murderer of another deputy marshal, Lubin S. Prevatt, 40, who was waylaid and shot to death by an unidentified assassin as he walked along a street early Monday.

Marshal Kerr was enroute to Steubenville from his home in Wilmington.

The shooting took place on Wells-st. in a district known as "The Hole," scene of numerous gang disorders.

His body was discovered by a colored man who reported finding the deputy marshal dead on the street with his hands in his pockets, indicating there had been no struggle.

Caught Unawares

Apparently the assassin caught Prevatt unawares, placed a gun near his head and fired, police said.

Prevatt's superior, Marshal Kerr was notified by telephone in Wilmington of the deputy's death.

Possibility that Steubenville's bitter mayoralty campaign in which Prevatt actively interested himself in behalf of the Democratic candidate, Earl D. Applegate, was seen by John F. Nolan, Jefferson-co central committee chairman and personal friend of the slain deputy marshal.

Planned, Says Nolan

"There is no doubt in my mind but what the shooting was a deliberately planned murder and a direct outgrowth of the campaign," said Nolan.

To Name Suspects

Chairman Nolan indicated he will appear before Prosecutor Arthur Hooper and name suspects. Prevatt became deputy marshal for the district last February, succeeding John Quigley. He came from Tennessee and at one time served as a mill policeman for the Wheeling Steel Corporation.

Coroner Charles Wells said an inquest would be opened during the day.

Deputy Marshal Prevatt had been active in liquor law enforcement, being responsible for scores of arrests in this region and the confiscation of many gallons of illicit liquor.

ADKINS' CAR IN ACCIDENT

The car of Joseph W. Adkins Jr., attorney, was reported badly damaged in an auto accident Saturday evening between Lima and Delphos. Only meager reports of the mishap were received by Judge Adkins, his father. It was not believed Joseph was injured.

He was enroute to Defiance to spend the week-end.

ROOSEVELT CITES JOB INCREASES

Roosevelt making address

Urging the public to continue contributions to private charities to remove the relief burden from the government and hailing a 5,000,000 gain in employment since his inauguration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is pictured above at the White House making a radio address on behalf of the 1935 Mobilization for Human Needs. The president said the September increase in employment was the greatest of any single month in the last year and a half and asserted the payrolls of reporting private industries were at May, 1931, level.

Deny Davey to "Promote" Bittering to Poulson Job

Rumors Persist Despite Denials; Hint Plan to "Retire" Governor

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Official sources today scouted rumors that Governor Davey plans a shake-up in the leadership of his personally-organized state Democratic executive committee to place J. Freer Bittering, Ashland, speaker of the House, at the helm, but the reports persisted.

Prominent Ohio Democrats, not too friendly to the governor freely predicted "off the record," that Davey has some plan of strategy in mind to attempt to stave off what they claim seems to be certain defeat either at the May primary or the election next fall.

Doubt Retirement

They doubted that he will retire from the race, as the Ohio Republican Editorial association suggested in an official statement Saturday. But they did admit there is strong possibility that he may attempt to win back many prominent Democratic leaders who left the fold when Francis W. Poulson was hand-picked as state chairman, by replacing Poulson with Bittering.

The Ashland man has been careful in his political maneuvering since coming to the force in state politics, they suggested, in order to avoid incurring the enmity of any faction within the party. He was given the important job of interviewing applicants for state patronage by Davey when he was named to a vice presidency of the state executive committee.

The G. O. P. editorial writers ventured the opinion the national administration, none too friendly toward the Davey regime in Ohio, may attempt some political "jacking" to force the Kent executive to voluntarily retire from the primary race for renomination.

Few observers, however, believe Davey could be forced out of the race, despite the growing effort of leaders within his own party to defeat him for the nomination for a second term, seldom resorted to in the party.

There were many here today who believed Davey may bring in to the race another candidate for governor to split up opposition.

JAPAN DEFIES LEAGUE ORDER

Refuses to Give Data Concerning Islands

GENEVA, Oct. 28.—Japan defied the League of Nations today when she was called before the league's mandates commission to answer charges that Japanese mandated islands in the Pacific had been fortified.

Determined to hold the islands although no longer a member of the league, Japan will refuse to give the commission the requested detailed explanation of expenditures on the islands, contenting herself, instead, with a general, formal denial of the accusation.

"Stories of fortifications and naval bases on the islands are ridiculous," Nobufumi Ito, minister of Poland and Japanese representative on the commission, told International News Service coincidentally with the hearing.

"All our expenditures there have been for commercial purposes," he referred particularly to islands in the Ladrone group, situated directly on the main cable and shipping routes between the United States and Hawaii and the Philippines, and near Guam.

Members of the league commission had alleged that port facilities were being established there far beyond the commercial needs of the islands.

Bomb Harar as Troops Begin March On All Fronts; Advance Steady

CAPITAL IS AFRAID

Transit of Arms to Principals Through Switzerland Is Refused

By International News Service Italian bombing planes bombed the Ethiopian telegraph station at the important city of Harar, according to dispatches today to the Italian press, which looked for a general Italian advance on all fronts during the day to mark the thirtieth anniversary of the fascist march on Rome.

The Italians made a steady advance southward from Eritrea, and on the southern front their planes flew far to the north to bomb Sassah Baneh, important post not far from the British Somaliland border and located far along the route to Harar from the south.

In Addis Ababa, where the Ethiopian government denied Harar had been bombed, there were fears the capital itself would be bombed as a result of the departure of the expelled Italian minister.

TWO ARRESTED IN AUTO THEFT

Mt. Sterling, Ky. Corn-huskers Caught with Car

Two peanut munching corn huskers from Mt. Sterling, Ky. gave officers of two counties and state highway patrolmen a thrilling auto chase early Sunday.

The men, James Winsfield and Pete Adams, both 23, are held in the county jail awaiting hearings, on charges of stealing the Ford Coach of Robert Peters, N. Court-st.

The car was stolen from a parking space at Valley View about 1

Winsfield and Adams were bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond each shortly before noon today by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace. Neither could furnish bond.

a. m. County officers say the men abandoned a 1927 Buick sedan, license 8415 T taken from Marion at Valley View, went into the inn and purchased some peanuts, and drove away in the car of Mr. Peters.

Sheriff Radcliff was notified of the theft and broadcast the information over the state radio system. Ross-co officers chased the car but were unable to overtake it. The auto was finally stopped in Waverly by State Patrolmen Oder and Raquet.

Sheriff Radcliff, Deputy Earl Weaver and Mr. Peters went to Chillicothe and obtained the car after it had been returned there by the state patrolmen.

The men were "going home" in the borrowed cars, officers reported.

SUPREME COURT SETS DEC. 9 FOR AAA ARGUMENT

Decision Expected Early in January on Crop Control Program

MILL IS PLAINTIFF

Four Major Issues Now Before High Tribunal For Decisions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The Supreme court today set the AAA processing tax test case for oral argument on Dec. 9, thus making possible a decision early in January.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed urged argument on Nov. 20, while counsel for receivers of the Hoosac mills which attacked the processing tax successfully in lower courts, suggested Dec. 9.

Argument Not Ready

The high court apparently was impressed by the statement of counsel for receivers that they could not prepare to argue such an important case before December.

The whole fate of the Roosevelt farm program—which now is listed as a permanent reform—will hang on the decision.

The high court agreed to rule on constitutionality of condemnation proceedings by the Roosevelt administration in carrying out its huge low-cost housing and slum clearance program.

Action was taken in granting the government's petition for review of an adverse decision of the sixth circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati in a Louisville, Ky., case.

Four Laws Aired

By the court's action the total of cases involving emergency laws of the Roosevelt administration was raised to four. Others involve the AAA processing taxes, Bankhead cotton act, and the TVA.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET TUESDAY

Two Committees to Hear Bittering at Country Club

One hundred of Pickaway-co's leading Democrats will gather at the Pickaway Country club Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. for their first get-together meeting of the year. The meeting will include members of the central and executive committees with George G. Adkins, chairman of the latter organization, in charge. The committee arranging the meeting includes John S. Ritt, K. J. Herrmann and L. J. Johnson.

The highlight of the evening will be an address by J. Freer Bittering, speaker of the house of representatives, and one of Ohio's leading Democrats. An administration man, Bittering is expected to speak concerning the problems faced by the legislature and the state government.

It is also probable that Cecil W. Briggs, chairman of the central committee, will announce his resignation at this meeting since he has been named acting postmaster for New Holland. A successor would be named by the central group.

The purpose of the meeting is to bring the two committees closer together in their effort to retain the approximately 1,800 majority the Democratic party holds in Pickaway-co.

MRS. LAURA FRANCIS OF HALLSVILLE DIES

SHERIFF WARNS OF BAD CHECKS

Radcliff's Action Follows Reports of Many Counties

Sheriff Charles Radcliff issued a warning Monday to local merchants to be on the lookout for bad checks.

Sheriffs of several adjoining counties notified the local sheriff they have had a large number of bad checks during the last two weeks and attempts would probably be made to invade Pickaway-co.

The sheriff also asked county residents to cooperate with his department in checking thefts throughout the county. In many instances where thefts have been reported by farmers, autoists have noticed suspicious parked cars. In the majority of cases they have failed to take the tag numbers. The sheriff asked autoists to obtain license numbers of suspicious cars parked along county roads and give them to the department for investigation.

The vote tabulation announced Monday noon by the Farm Bureau shows 475 farmers favoring continuance of the program to 93 against in Saturday's balloting. This is the total county vote and represents about a 60 per cent vote, Farm Bureau officials announced.

The total number of contract signers in this county is 790. Only 86 of the voters were non-contract signers.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Slowly mounting returns today in corn-hog poll from seven Ohio counties, participating in the nation-wide referendum, indicated an overwhelming majority of the state's producers were in favor of continuing the program.

Discloses Figures

J. W. Wuichet, state agent in charge of the Ohio referendum, said early returns from Hardin, Harrison, Hocking, Jefferson, Meigs, Muskingum, and Richland counties showed 1,582 farmers were in favor of continuing the program while 187 polled "no."

Of the total retention votes in the seven counties, 111 producers who at present are not contract-signers, voted for retention. Present contract-signers who voted to continue the program totaled 1,471.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Turning deaf ear to administration critics, the nations' corn and hog farmers today apparently had given President Roosevelt's agricultural policies an overwhelming vote of confidence.

Incomplete tabulations of Saturday's referendum to determine whether production control for these commodities should continue after 1935 disclosed 258,000 producers favoring the AAA program with 50,000 recorded in opposition. The official figures will not be available for several days.

SCHULTZ BURIED

HAWTHORNE, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenheimer, slain last week with three of his henchmen in a Newark tavern, was buried here today.

NEWARK POLICE CLAIM GANG'S KILLERS KNOWN

Woman Witness Guarded After Giving Information

NEWARK, Oct. 28.—Local police believe they know the identities of the killers of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenheimer and three of his henchmen. Moreover they believe the slayers are "hiding out" in a rendezvous several miles from Atlantic City. This was revealed this morning as six high police officials, armed with secret information provided by a young woman eye-witness to the shooting of Schultz and his aides, sped southward in an effort to surprise the suspects in their lair. The woman who furnished the information was visiting the bartender in the palace chop house on Wednesday night and was seated in a darkened corner, sipping a glass of beer when the gunmen entered and opened fire on the four New York gangsters.

Idently Guarded
Her identity and home are being guarded against publicity as a protective measure. She had been taken to the Newark police line-up yesterday and she viewed numerous underworld characters from behind a mask. She was unable to identify any of the men who paraded before her, but after secret questioning she is thought to have furnished the clue police had been seeking since the shootings.

The men who are enroute south to follow up the clue are Prosecutor Wathenfeld of Essex-co, two members of his staff, two officers assigned by Deputy Police Chief John Haller and a New York detective.

Another woman in the case also was scheduled to be questioned today. She is the red-haired Frances Maxwell, who claims to have been Schultz's first wife, and whose answers to questions the day after the shooting left police unsatisfied. They will attempt to clear away "contradictions" in her account of her whereabouts the night of the shootings. She had admitted she saw Schultz that day to bring him some papers and then left for the movies.

Checking Story
Her Inquisitioners say she could not recall the name of the picture she saw. Other reputed uncertainties in her statements are to be

"Ape Man" is Hunted as Brutal Attack of Woman

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Police were without a single clue today as they pressed their search for the brutal "ape man" attacker of Mrs. Rose London, pretty 30-year-old red-head.

An examination of the drain pipe up which her attacker had climbed hand-over-hand, ape fashion, to gain entrance to her second floor hotel room, failed to reveal any finger prints.

Likewise, a thorough examination of the hotel room and the two-foot length of iron pipe with which the "ape man" had brutally beaten the woman, failed to disclose finger prints.

Police sought to learn the identity of a man said by hotel employees to be about 55 years of age and about five feet seven inches tall, who accompanied Mrs. Londo into the hotel. They parted in the lobby after the man asked her to call him some time. He had been a fellow bus passenger, a porter at the bus terminal told police.

Woman Near Death
The victim, wife of Jack London, prosperous San Diego, Cal., grocer, was near death today, her skull fractured and her body a mass of bruises.

The brutal assault was discovered by hotel employees yesterday when Mrs. London failed to answer a call. Breaking down the door to her room, they found her unconscious on the floor. Her black pajamas had been ripped from her body in the struggle with her assailant. Blood covered the bed, floor and was smeared on the walls. Her two purses, opened and empty, were on the floor. The window of the room was open.

Mrs. London regained consciousness at the hospital, told police she had not seen her attacker. "I went to bed just after midnight," she said, "and woke up here. I don't know what happened."

Police said they believed robbery was the motive. Thirty-eight dollars was missing from Mrs. London's purses.

She arrived here Saturday, she told police, and was enroute to New York to visit her brother, A. J. Ross, druggist, who had been ill.

DR. TOWNSEND EXPLAINS HIS PENSION PLAN

6,000 Leave for Homes After Their Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Some 6,000 men and women were enroute to their homes today convinced that the Townsend plan "is the missing link" of the country's economic salvation.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, retired Long Beach, Cal., physician and author of the pension plan which would give every man and woman over 60 years of age $200 a month, closed his organization's first national convention here yesterday with an explanation of his plan.

The physician declared that this country has an adequate system of production and a great consuming public, unable to buy because it has no money, and that this gap must be filled.

"The Townsend plan is the missing link," he told the elderly delegates from Townsend clubs throughout the country.

Eight Million Qualify
He estimated there are 8,000,000 persons who would qualify for the pension.

Under his proposed system, he said, everybody would fall into three classifications. Youth would prepare itself for useful citizenship; the adult class would produce the wealth, and the aged would do the heavy spending.

Funds to pay the pension, he said, would be raised by a universal two per cent transactions tax, to be levied on all business.

The convention resolved to make the nation's youth converts to the Townsend cause, declaring youth "is getting disillusioned from inability to find employment and its proper place in the social structure."

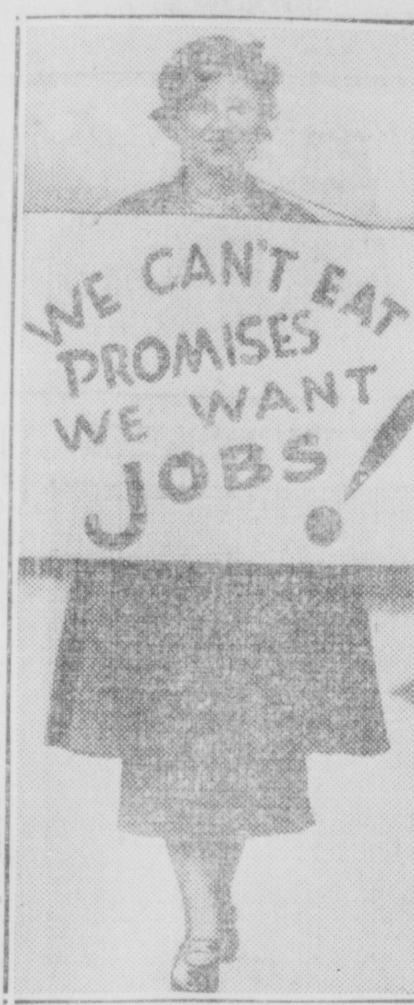

H. E. Clements, national secretary of the organization, said: "Youth will have its birthright of opportunity under the Townsend plan."

Before adjournment Dr. Clinton Winder, New York Townsend club chief, called for voluntary contributions.

All "Chip In"
"Let's show how we feel by chipping in so that the organization gets a tidy little sum. Dig deep! We've all got to give to get something."

The amount of the collection

Promises, However, to Use Influence for Peace

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—America today stood "free and untangled" insofar as any sanctions commitments to the League of Nations were concerned.

The American reply to the League's virtual request for an indication as to how far this government might be prepared to go in backing league action against Italy was to be delivered today to the league's committee on coordination by American Minister Hugh R. Wilson.

The American reply contained no promises or commitments but merely declared that "in keeping with the letter and spirit of the pact of Paris and other peace obligations," this government would undertake at all times "not only to exercise its moral influence in favor of peace throughout the world, but to contribute in every practicable way within the limitations of our foreign policy, to that end."

Request Ignored

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in drafting the reply, completely ignored the implied request from the league as to how far this government might be prepared to go in backing league sanctions against Italy.

He said this government viewed "with sympathetic interest" the individual or concerted efforts of other nations to preserve peace or "to localize and shorten the duration of war," but he refrained from any promises as to the extent to which this government would go in cooperating with such efforts.

He left the question of American cooperation with the league's peace efforts open and in a state where this government maintained its position of complete freedom of action in European political snarls.

The view still prevailed that it was up to the league to wait and see how effective its own sanctions proved before commencing to worry about American trade or interests interfering with the effectiveness of such sanctions.

Meanwhile, Secretary Hull turned his attention to the forthcoming

Fear Is Eased

This action and the banning of export of arms and war materials to the belligerents, eased fears of league circles as to what attitude Switzerland would take toward cooperation with the League of Nations.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 28—British troops in Egypt now number 50 to 60 per cent above normal, according to reliable independent estimates, but even with the withdrawal of 15,000 Italian soldiers from Libya, the British forces are still overwhelmingly outnumbered.

The arrival during the last few days of three battalions of infantry totaling 2500 men brought the British strength nearly to 18,000. Half of the new infantry today is establishing camp at Sidibishr, near Alexandria, a post unused since the World War. The others have gone to Ismailia, half way to Suez canal.

TAR CAUSES CHURCH FIRE

Presbyterian Building in Lancaster Flames Scene

LANCASTER, Oct. 28—Fire caused damage estimated at $15,000 to the First Presbyterian church here Saturday afternoon. The majority of the damage was to the Sunday school annex.

The blaze started when tar, used in repairing the roof, boiled over and ignited. Many valuable records and pieces of furniture in the building were saved but the pipe organ was ruined. The loss was covered by insurance.

The church was originally known as the "Hock Hocking" church and was erected on a site chosen by Rev. John Wright, Pennsylvania, who came to Ohio in 1802 and established the church in 1806. The present structure was built in 1892.

The congregation held services Sunday in the Lancaster high school auditorium, offered by the board of education.

IL DUCE BEGINS ANOTHER YEAR

Makes 9-Word Speech to 70,000 Fascists in Rome

ROME, Oct. 28—With a nine-word speech, Premier Mussolini today stirred to cheering enthusiasm a crowd of 70,000 Fascists packing Piazza Venezia on the 13th anniversary of the march on Rome.

"We initiate with the same courage the 14th year," Mussolini shouted from the balcony of his Palazzo Venezia, then turned on his heel and disappeared.

Apart from his short manifestation, an atmosphere of almost sullen determination hung over Rome during the anniversary.

All public buildings and most private houses flew the national flag, and more civilians than ever before put on the traditional black shirts and sported the Fascist party emblem in their lapels, but the air of frantic jubilation and blaring bands of former years was markedly absent.

Nevertheless the tremendous crowd assembled before Mussolini's headquarters under an overcast sky, shivering and shuffling and stamping their feet to keep warm, hoping that Il Duce would show himself.

Suddenly he appeared, held up his arm for silence, spoke, and vanished, to the waving of a sea of handkerchiefs and cries of "Viva Il Duce!"

The speech was in keeping with Mussolini's idea of "action, not words," and epitomized his determination to go ahead resolutely in Ethiopia and to combat "with discipline" the economic sanctions of the League of Nations that are now regarded as inevitable.

MELLON'S MUNIFICENCE

MORE than ever making Washington an artistic center comes the news from Pittsburgh that Andrew W. Mellon, long secretary of the treasury, has filed a trust deed of $10,000,000 which, with his great art collection, will form the nucleus of a national institute of art at the capital. In the words of the deed the gallery will "have as its object the education of the people of the United States in the fine arts and cultural advancement of mankind."

Mr. Mellon was secretary of the treasury almost eleven years and left office to become ambassador to the Court of St. James'. He was in and of the life of Washington from the time he was 66 until he was 77, and he loved the city even more than he did his home town, Pittsburgh. He saw in the capital a great means of education in the fine things of life as well as the political center of the country. It is characteristic that the name of the institution is to be "The National Gallery of Art of the United States" or something similar, there being already a National Gallery, which is a part of the Smithsonian Institution, in addition to the Corcoran and Freer galleries.

The Mellon benefactions will constitute a group of paintings and other art objects said to have cost originally $25,000,000. They have been collected over many years. The collection is especially rich in Raphaels, Rembrandts, Van Dycks, and has a Velasquez, a Van Eyck, a Botticelli, a Perugino besides other examples of famous paintings by these and other artists.

Such a collection should not have any other than noble housing. This Mr. Mellon has seen to in his munificent and patriotic gift to the nation. It is said that it composes the richest of all modern collections with a possible present-day value of $40,000,000.

PKYKNICS AND ASTHENICS

THE Fat Boy in "Pickwick Papers" was really not comedy relief but a pyknic, as was the Headless Horseman of Washington Irving an asthenic. These are inescapable conclusions after reading what Professor William B. Pillsbury, head of the department of psychology of the University of Michigan, had to say the other day. A long study by him of types attending classes at his college led to the conclusion, long suspected that Falstaff's preference for men who sleep o' nights was based primarily on the fact that really they were pyknics as opposed to the asthenic, or Mr. Stiggins, type.

Fat folks, Professor Pillsbury hastens to note, are not lacking in intelligence, they are merely easy-going, are not especially interested in scholastic honors. He found few pyknics at the U. of M., but plenty of asthenics, thus accounting for the high scholarship at Ann Arbor. Ignoring justifiable college loyalty, the fact remains in the professor's mind that the pyknic is wanting in zeal and ambition while the asthenic strives toward the head of the class—and usually gets there, or near it. On the other hand, the pyknic, after a brief stay at the university, finds it convenient to drop out, a pyknic to the end, or picknicker.

The polite professor failed to mention the fat ladies.

Man is pretty decent. In the last 5000 years he has thought up several new virtues and not a single new sin.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Italian claims of victory in Ethiopia should be taken with a generous helping of salt.

So far, Mussolini's men have not entered the peak-jagged central plateau, and have been relatively unopposed.

In reading all reports from the front, it is important to keep in mind the first report made to Mussolini by the Italian General Staff. It specified that the conquest would require 300,000 to 400,000 men, would cost a minimum of about 750,000,000 lire a month, would require a minimum of two years followed by guerilla fighting for an indefinite period.

Mussolini had figured on only 70,000 men and an expenditure of 250,000,000 lire monthly. According to confidential reports received here, when he received the General Staff report he tore it up.

This was the reason for placing General di Bono, a notorious fire-eater not in sympathy with the General Staff, in charge of the Ethiopian campaign.

Today, however, Mussolini is in a position to realize that his General Staff was right.

Already he has around 300,000 men in East Africa. Money is being spent at an unknown rate; but according to the Federal Reserve Board, the Italian gold reserve has diminished from $519,000,000 to $379,000,000 in the last few months.

If the League can make sanctions only fifty per cent effective against Italy, and if Emperor Haile Selassie can retain the loyalty of his chieftains for only a year, the Italian attempt at conquest may die aborning.

NOTE—Neutral military observers disagree with the Italian General Staff in the matter of time. They estimate three instead of two years for the complete conquest of Ethiopia.

British officials estimate that Mussolini will have exhausted his cash in fifteen months. American experts figure that he can't last that long.

ADDRESS UNKNOWN

One of the most formidable judicial assemblies in the country is the annual conference of the senior Federal circuit court judges, presided over by the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. It is held in Washington just before the opening of the fall court term, and ordinarily it is a solemn and serious occasion.

The session just terminated was opened by Chief Justice Hughes, who tapped his gavel for attention and observed gravely:

"Gentlemen, I have noted with much satisfaction the great amount of public interest in the proceedings of the Court this past year. I am glad that our citizens are so attentive, for there was a time, not long ago, when I thought we were in danger of being overlooked.

"As an earnest of this re-awakened public interest I hold in my hand a letter recently received. It is addressed to John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States."

With continued judicial gravity, Chief Justice Hughes added:

"I have been in a quandary about where I should forward this letter, as I do not know the ultimate destination of our distinguished predecessor."

NOTE—John Marshall, first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, died in 1835.

PUZZLE

Last year's hot argument on whether Big Jim Farley did or did not take the Post Office Department out of the red is starting all over again.

Jim is claiming that he has another surplus. The Budget Bureau says he has nothing of the kind. According to its books, Jim really has a $63,000,000 deficit.

And to make the dispute more complicated, Comptroller General McCarl claims that both are wrong.

Explanation for this delightful diversity is that each uses a different basis for his bookkeeping.

Jim has taken advantage of a law put through by Walter F. Brown, his Republican predecessor, and deducted from postal expenditures all subsidies to shipping, airlines and the cost of free mail under the franking privilege. By this subtraction he is able to lop off $75,000,000; thereby pull a surplus out of the hat.

McCarl's varying calculations arise from the fact that he records only the actual amount of money withdrawn by the Department from the Treasury during a fiscal year. For practical purposes his figures have little bearing on the surplus-deficit controversy.

The Romance Racket

MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 37

IT WAS a little before 10 when Carol let herself into the Van Cleve house. She found Katie waiting in the hall, red-eyed and breathless with excitement.

"Oh, Miss Kennedy, Mrs. Van Cleve says for you to go right to your room. Miss Miranda is asleep and the doctor says not to disturb her and Mr. and Mrs. Van Cleve have gone out."

"Why are you crying and why was the doctor . . . why did he say for me not to disturb her?"

Katie burst into weeping afresh. "Oh, Miss Kennedy, something terrible has happened! Mr. David is dead!"

For a second Carol stood stunned into silence. David, Miss Van Cleve's favorite nephew, was dead. And David was the only person in the world, outside of herself, that Miranda trusted. She loved David as a son and that made her loss doubly hard. What would this blow do to her now when her world was tottering on the edge of she knew not what? Carol's heart contracted with fear.

"Did you say Dr. Childers had put Miss Miranda to bed?" she asked Katie.

"No, ma'am. Dr. Childers had left right after tea. Miss Van Cleve had her dinner in her own room. I don't know what happened but when they told her, they had Perkins call Dr. Waite who lives next door."

"What do you mean you don't know what happened, Katie?" Carol asked gently.

"I was finishing up tidying the dining room about half an hour after dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Van Cleve had gone into the library and next thing I knew, Mr. Van Cleve was coming down the stairs and I could hear moanin' from Miss Miranda's room and Mr. Van, he sez: 'Katie, tell Perkins to come upstairs immediately and call Dr. Waite. Tell him to hurry. Just like that.'"

"But, Katie, when did the news come about Mr. David?"

"I don't know, Miss Kennedy. It must've come while we were havin' our supper downstairs."

"All right, go on, what happened next?"

"I don't know much, Miss Kennedy. When the doctor came, they shut the door and Mrs. Van Cleve told us to go downstairs. Then Perkins told us a telegram had come telling them about it and when he went up to tell Miss Van Cleve she was took suddenly. The doctor gave her some sleepin' medicine and says she wasn't to be disturbed by nobody. And when Mrs. Van Cleve went out she says I should wait and tell you not to try to see her tonight and to see herself before you went to see Miss Van Cleve in the morning."

"I see, thank you, Katie," Carol went up to her room then. She couldn't sleep, she felt that every moment was precious and that she had no right to sleep when there were things that must be done. She wanted to go and comfort Miranda in this last great blow but she did not want to disturb her and she did not want to bring any suspicion on herself. If she was to help Miranda, she must not appear to be on her side.

"Mrs. Van Cleve would like to see you in her room at 11, Miss Kennedy," Perkins told Carol when he brought her her breakfast tray.

"Perkins have you heard how Miss Miranda is this morning?" she asked the butler.

"No, Miss, she hasn't had her tray yet so we think she is sleeping. We had orders that she was not to be disturbed. You heard about Mr. David?"

"Yes, I did, Perkins. It must have been a terrible blow. I suppose you didn't dream that the telegram was bad news?"

"There was no telegram, Miss Kennedy, that I know of."

"Such cruel news to come over the telephone," Carol said.

Perkins looked at her quickly as though her words had startled him. "Oh, no, it didn't come over the telephone, either." He seemed to be speaking aloud his thoughts. Instantly Carol was aroused.

She didn't want Perkins to know what was in the back of her mind. "Did the news come before or after dinner?" she asked.

"It must have come after dinner," he answered slowly, "because Mr. and Mrs. Van Cleve conversed all through dinner and they couldn't have known then. The first I heard was when they asked me to telephone for the doctor."

"It was very . . . very sad for all of them," Carol hoped she sounded only politely interested.

"Very," Perkins said, and she knew he would answer no more questions.

Carol paced the floor. She must move carefully. She mustn't let her thoughts run away with her. If she was wrong, she would be doing something too cruel to think of.

When Katie came to take away her untouched tray, she said: "Katie, who always answers the doorbell?"

"Why, Perkins, ma'am, always."

"Wouldn't Mr. or Mrs. Van Cleve answer it in person if either of them happened to be near when it rang?"

"Oh, no, ma'am. Never," Katie answered firmly.

"Which one of you answered last night when word came of Mr. David?"

"None of us did, Miss Kennedy, because the word didn't come as I thought it was just sayin'. That's what made us think it was so funny and mysterious-like."

"Oh, come, Katie," Carol smiled at the girl. "There's nothing 'mysterious-like' about getting sudden word like that."

"Yes, there is, ma'am," Katie's voice fell to a whisper. "I kin tell when people's had bad news and neither the Mister nor the Missus had bad news while they was eatin' their dinner. And how they got it after dinner, I wouldn't be knowin' because it has to come by the telephone or by the door, don't it?"

"I should think so," Carol said noncommittally.

"Well, it didn't!" Katie looked to Carol for surprise which Carol didn't show. However, the interest on Carol's face was encouraging.

"It might have come either way," Carol said. "And you didn't hear it?"

"And why shouldn't I?" Katie rejoined. "Cook and Perkins and me was havin' our supper, all sittin' together until I went upstairs to finish tidyin' the dining room. The door-bell and the telephone rings like all get-out downstairs and never a twick did either one of them let out all last night. One of us would've known if it had and it didn't!"

"It's very sad and I hope Miss Miranda will be all right," Carol indicated that the interview was at an end.

"Sure, she's the only one who cares," Katie said, departing.

Carol felt that her knees were weak. She dreaded the meeting with Mrs. Van Cleve. Carol masked her face of all emotion. She must not let Mrs. Van Cleve suspect that she did not accept all that was being presented to her.

"Come in," that lady said in a kindly voice to Carol's knock.

"Sit down," she said kindly. Mrs. Van Cleve wore a plain black dress. Her customary pearls were missing but she gave no other outward sign of mourning or that grief had marked the family.

"Of course, you have heard about our poor cousin?"

Carol nodded.

"Poor David," Mrs. Van Cleve paused a moment. "He was my husband's dearest cousin. Undoubtedly Miss Van Cleve has mentioned him to you?"

Carol looked back at her steadily. "I don't think she has," she lied and she was glad she had when she thought she saw a look of relief pass quickly over the features of the other woman.

"He's been in South America on some dangerous exploring expedition. We had a telegram last night from Mr. Creighton, one of his men who has just returned, saying that David had died of malarial fever more than a month ago. The blow has deeply affected Aunt Miranda and I fear that we shall need a trained nurse to look out for her. My husband will speak to you about it tonight. You mustn't feel that you must hurry . . . but under the circumstances . . ."

So Mrs. Van Cleve was getting rid of her! Carol pretended that she did not understand this as a dismissal.

"Please accept my sympathy for all of you," she said.

Carol slipped on her coat and hat. The telephone office was only three blocks away.

"I wish to send a telegram to Washington, to a Mr. Creighton," she told the clerk. "There was a wire for us . . . Van Cleve is the name. It arrived last night. May I see a copy please? I don't remember Mr. Creighton's first name."

After 10 minutes, the clerk came back. "There wasn't any wire for Van Cleve last night," he said.

CIVILIZATION HAS ARRIVED!

DIET AND HEALTH

How Chemistry of Life Maintains Body Balance

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TO THE philosophic mind, the most beautiful thing about nature is its balances.

The chemistry of life in the plants balances exactly the chemistry of life in the animals.

The nitrogenous equilibrium may be maintained at many different levels, depending on circumstances. If the nitrogen in the food is low, the nitrogen cast out becomes low and vice versa.

Balance Essential to Life

But there is a certain point beyond which this balance does not go. The tissues of the body are constantly breaking down and being cast off in the form of nitrogenous end products. If this amount is not supplied by the food, and more is going out than is coming in, the nitrogenous equilibrium is broken, and if the condition continues for any length of time, death will result.

Everyone is familiar with the emaciation which occurs at the end of a long fever or other wasting illness. This is the result of nitrogenous imbalance. And it is easy to see that this nitrogenous equilibrium is essential to life.

How low can the intake of nitrogen be and still be compatible with life? We know of the experiments of Hildebrandt in Copenhagen, who maintained a laboratory worker on a diet of potatoes and margarine. He had to eat a large amount of this monotonous diet and even so it was found he was only obtaining 30 grams of protein a day.

Most of us use four or five times this amount, and as a result, most of our nitrogenous intake is waste. It is instructive, however, to see how quickly and completely the nitrogenous balance is restored by the body as the nitrogenous intake goes up.

This is basic because nitrogen is the element that enters into the chemistry of the living substance, protoplasm, and makes it what it is. We take nitrogen into the body entirely in the form of nitrogen in the food.

When we come to analyze the balances that keep this delicate organism poised in nature—kept here by the continuation of that mysterious force we can name, but not define, life—we find many. I have indicated some of them in other articles this week. One is energy balance—the production of enough heat and mechanical energy in the form of muscular movement to maintain the integrity of the organism in the face of the destructive forces of the outside universe.

There are other balances, however, that are tissue balances. The most important of these is the nitrogenous equilibrium of the body—the balance of the amount of nitrogen which enters and the amount cast off by the body.

This is basic because nitrogen is the element that enters into the chemistry of the living substance, protoplasm, and makes it what it is. We take nitrogen into the body entirely in the form of nitrogen in the food.

When we come to analyze the balances that keep this delicate organism poised in nature—kept here by the continuation of that mysterious force we can name, but not define, life—we find many. I have indicated some of them in other articles this week. One is energy balance—the production of enough heat and mechanical energy in the form of muscular movement to maintain the integrity of the organism in the face of the destructive forces of the outside universe.

There are other balances, however, that are tissue balances. The most important of these is the nitrogenous equilibrium of the body—the balance of the amount of nitrogen which enters and the amount cast off by the body.

This is basic because nitrogen is the element that enters into the chemistry of the living substance, protoplasm, and makes it what it is. We take nitrogen into the body entirely in the form of nitrogen in the food.

The Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church are announcing the opening of the autumn and winter sessions of book reviews to be presented by Mrs. Depew Head of Columbus.

Mrs. Head comes to this city again by popular request, and those who had the pleasure of hearing her last season can vouch for her ability as the most outstanding artist in her chosen field. For her initial appearance here Thursday evening, Nov. 21, she will review "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow. This is the outstanding novel of the year, and her various courses throughout the state have been opened with this book.

Mrs. Head will appear here again in January, February and March and at each time will review the popular choice of the best literature to be obtained for those particular months.

Season and single admission tickets will be on sale by members of the Bible class, the sponsor of the course.

State-Notre Dame Game One of Season's Best

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—With five teams in the Big Ten championship race and everybody getting nowhere with singular decorum, football attention in the middle-west and, for that matter, throughout the nation next Saturday will be diverted toward the meeting of Ohio State and Notre Dame at Columbus.

If the Notre Dame-Ohio State game isn't the standout contest of the western hemisphere this week, then Joe Louis is a cream-puff and wrestling is an honest endeavor. Both teams are unbeaten. Ohio State has rolled up a total of 160 points in four games. Notre Dame has beaten Kansas, Carnegie Tech, Wisconsin, Pittsburgh and Navy.

Million to Listen

If the contest was rated as outstanding when it was scheduled, it is even more so now. More than 85,000 spectators will see it and few million more will listen to it.

By dint of its tremendous power and speed, Ohio State is rated the favorite. Professional price-makers today were making the Buckeyes 5 to 3 favorites. But the Irish have pointed for this one and they're not going to be shoved around with the greatest of ease. Only last Saturday, Notre Dame defeated Navy, 14 to 0, while Ohio State was beating Indiana, 28 to 6.

As far as Big Ten championship is concerned this week, only one game figures to cut any one. Purdue, which lost to Carnegie Tech last Saturday, 7 to 0, nevertheless may give Minnesota a busy afternoon at Minneapolis. In any event, one or the other must give up the idea of a conference title or any portion of it if it must be divided up. Minnesota was outplayed for thirty minutes by Northwestern last Saturday, but finally overpowered the Wildcats, 21 to 13.

Illinois on Spot

Still reeling from a 19 to 0 trimming by Iowa, Illinois is preparing for a titanic struggle with Northwestern next Saturday. After its impressive showing against the Gophers last Saturday, Northwestern does not figure to be frightened measurably by the Illini's previous victory over Southern California.

Michigan's unbeaten conference record will remain unchallenged this week when the Wolverines entertain Pennsylvania after beating Columbia, 19 to 7, last Saturday.

IOWA SMASHES ILLINI, 19 TO 0

A crowd of 25,000 football fans saw Iowa accumulate three touchdowns in Saturday's game at Illinois Memorial Stadium in Champaign, Ill., two of them coming in the final period when the lighter Illini had practically run itself out of gas trying to keep up with the extremely elusive and surprisingly durable Ozzie Simmons. Photo shows Ozzie Simmons of Iowa at the start of his 71-yard run for a touchdown in the second quarter of the game.

Lewis—Not Louis—May be Next Negro Ring Champ

JOHN HENRY LEWIS... challenger.

By BILL BRAUCHER

Joe Louis isn't the only one of his race likely to become a ring champion before very much more time is snuffed up by the rabid ringsters.

John Henry Lewis, another Dark Destroyer, from Phoenix, Ariz., is to have a chance at the world's light heavyweight championship on the night of Oct. 31 in St. Louis, and unless Bob Olin is a better fighter than his record indicates, John Henry may be the winner and new champion.

He Beat Rosie Twice

John Henry doesn't spell his name the way Joe does, and, of course, isn't the fighter Joe is, but he can go to town with a pair of boxing mittens, just the same, and probably will be favored to out-smack the champion. The Arizona has looked very, very good at times, beating Maxie Rosenbloom twice a few years back when Maxie was champion, but it happened that the title was not at stake on those occasions. Last year John Henry Lewis gave Jimmy Braddock quite a tussle for 10 rounds, losing the decision.

The parallel of Jewish fighter

BOB OLIN... the champion.

Volcanic strength, which showed up in the Baer-Louis bout, appears again in this bout, as Olin is a Jewish boy, too, and former Wall Street clerk. Olin has been beaten often during his eight years in the ring.

In other words, Olin cannot be frightened out of his title, but is pretty certain to put up a lusty and rugged defense. Since winning it he has had a number of family misfortunes, and needs the money. He is reported to be receiving a $15,000 guarantee in St. Louis.

Siki Only Negro Champ

Only one Negro has held the light heavyweight title—Battling Siki, a Senegalese, who won it 13 years ago in Paris by knocking out Georges Carpentier in six rounds. Mike McTigue won it from Siki in 1923 in Dublin, the bout being staged on St. Patrick's Day, of all days.

Paul Berlenbach won it from McTigue two years later. Other holders of the championship since Berlenbach were Jack Delaney, Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Slattery and Maxie Rosenbloom. Slapsie Maxie held the title nearly five years before dropping it to Olin, Nov. 16, 1934.

awarded next Friday are; Riggins, 499; W. Heggie, 453; Pete Nobis, 452 Ladies, Ruby Bunn, 95, and L. McNeal, 76.

Prizes are being awarded by a number of business houses.

LEACH'S SETTER IS PRIZE WINNER

Ralph M. Leach's three-year-old Llewellyn setter, "Laddie Air-flow," won third prize in a large entry for shooting dogs in the field day held Sunday in Lancaster. Approximately 3,000 persons attended the event with many dogs entered.

GRID MANAGER HURT

YORKVILLE, Oct. 23—Student Manager Jerome Senzli of the local high school football team today had an arm fracture just because he acted as good samaritan. Because of a scarcity of players, he went into the lineup to help the high school coach develop a new play. He came out with the injury.

NEW AVIATION STUNT

CONNEAUT, O., With his fuel nearly exhausted, a pilot landed his plane on the highway near here recently, and taxied up to a gasoline station. He refueled, took off on the roadway and continued his journey before his name could be learned.

About This And That In Many Sports

Nine Out of Eleven

Our guessing effort on Friday's grid games struck an average of 818—We were right on nine out of 11 guesses, the only ones being us being Purdue-Carnegie Tech and Wisconsin-Chicago. We picked Purdue and Wisconsin both of which lost. One selection, however, that differed from that of many "experts" was Iowa over Illinois; the Iowans knocked off their foes, 19-0, and was plenty impressive.

Other games where the Tids and That predictions were right included, Ohio over Indiana, Michigan over Columbus, Notre Dame over Navy, Minnesota over Northwestern, Ohio U. over Dayton, Wesleyan over Wittenberg, Pitt over Penn, and Princeton over Cornell.

Still for Bucks

The Ohio State-Notre Dame contest Saturday in the Ohio horsehoe has everyone guessing—We're still picking Ohio.

Dad's Day Friday

There'll be plenty of activity at the high school this week with gridders preparing for their first "Dad's Day" Friday against Marysville. The contest, which winds up the Central Buckeye league season, will see fathers and guardians of the gridders honored. According to the Red and Black school paper, two mothers will be on hand to sponsor their sons. Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson and Mrs. Margaret Mills. Although Marysville whipped Delaware last week, the Tigers are hopeful of knocking off Jerry Kingsmore's crowd.

The only game remaining on the Tiger schedule then will be London here and Chillicothe in the Ross-co city.

Other Features

Other standout games Saturday in addition to Ohio-Notre Dame are: Kentucky at Alabama, Mississippi State at Army, Navy at Princeton, Indiana at Iowa, Purdue at Minnesota, Cincinnati at Ohio Wesleyan, Miami at Ohio U., Colgate at Tulane, Dartmouth at Yale, Auburn at Louisiana, Texas at Southern Methodist, California at UCLA, the biggest game on the west coast this year.

PROSPECTIVE HOME OR INVESTMENT BUYERS

Many of you have experienced the drudgery and toil of the poorly equipped farms, and have deprived yourself and your families of the pleasure and comforts of life, in order to create a savings, whereby, someday you might have an opportunity to own a home.

What a feeling of satisfaction and pride that must be yours when you have reached the point where this can be accomplished. But remember, even though your highest ambition in life has been realized, you will still be living in the same old rut if you do not act as once, and make this investment before land prices have advanced beyond your purchasing power.

I am offering to you this week, the farm of your dreams, a perfect little place, and should you choose to invest your savings in these grounds you will be the holder of one of the choicest securities the world has to offer.

I submit for your consideration, this beautiful farm home located on federal route, on lands that are rich and fertile, in the very heart of the corn belt almost within stone's throw of church, schools, stores and grain markets, with extra good fences, thoroughly clean barns, garage outbuildings of all sorts, that are in keeping with premises of this kind.

The residence—a new modern and unusually attractive white brick, six room, luxurious, possessing every feature that adds to the comfort of a home, including electrical equipment of all kind, very best hot air furnace that money can buy, pressure tanks forcing both kinds of water into kitchen and bath room, elaborately built-in cupboards in kitchen, large modern sink and boards, electric refrigerator, electric range, a built-in china closet in dining room that is within reach of a work of art, open fire place in large living room, open stairway leading to den on second floor, and hardwood floors throughout of the very best quality. A strictly modern bath room with fixtures of very latest design.

What a farm! What a home, what a location and the price, neither high nor low, just a fair market price considering what I have to offer, no repairs, no improvements to be made. Move in and start taking in the money.

Terms Cash or will make you a loan for any reasonable amount providing security is satisfactory. Possession in thirty days if desired. No of interest—125 —

If interested, call or see, JAMES B. JOHNSON, Licensed Real Estate Broker, Williamsport, O. Phone 574.

SUPT. M'DOWELL HONORED BY CENTRAL OHIO TEACHERS

HEADS RURAL SCHOOL GROUP

Local Man to Preside over Meeting in October, 1936

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway-co schools, was honored at the Central Ohio Teachers association meeting in Dayton Friday and Saturday by being elected president of the County, Village and Rural Superintendents section.

Mr. McDowell will prepare the program and preside over the meeting in Columbus the last Friday in October, 1936.

A number of Pickaway-co teachers attended the association meeting and reported much good derived from the addresses.

War is Condemned

Six district school conventions, concluded Saturday with passage of resolutions condemning war and urging legislation for a school foundation program and adequate teacher job tenure.

In Cleveland the Northwestern Ohio Teachers' association closed its meeting with an address by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, of the University of Wisconsin, who defended government regulation of business.

Penalties Are Approved

Other speakers at the north-eastern sessions were Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college, who advocated application of penalties to Italy because of the Ethiopian conflict; Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school; Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Dr. William Kilpatrick of Columbia university.

Northwestern teachers, meeting at Toledo, were urged by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, to revise educational functions to meet modern requirements. They, too, heard Dr. Woolley, and followed her address with a resolution asking America to support the League of Nations in efforts toward peace.

Against Stream Pollution

In addition to the anti-war resolution, teachers of the southwest group at Cincinnati, also voted in favor of a movement to eliminate pollution of the Ohio river, and decided education should include study of social, economic and political problems. Walton B. Bliss, of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Education association, told the teachers there would be available $9 more per pupil in Ohio schools next year. He said present revenue from the state per pupil was $26.75.

Southeastern educators in closing their sessions at Athens voted for restoration of all school functions stopped by the depression, urged additional funds for free texts in poor districts, and sought a minimum graduated scale of pay for teachers.

At Dayton and Marietta, teacher assemblies likewise placed themselves on the side of peace, voting for patriotic education opposed to wars of aggression.

HUNDREDS DEAD IN HAITI STORM

American Pilot Flies Over Stricken Area

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 28—An American airplane today succeeded in reaching the storm smitten Jeremie district, isolated for a week and brought back the official police estimate that at least 2,200 lives had been lost in the violent wind and rain that hammered the coast last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Two hundred were killed at Jacmel alone by a tidal wave and flooded rivers. The flyer, E. K. Charlton, who was accompanied by a Haitian, Desire Paris, brought back a story of uprooted crops on the southwestern peninsula, houses splintered, leaving hundreds homeless and destitute. But the towns not so badly hit as the country districts. Such was the fury of the rain-swollen streams that the center of a steel bridge was twisted away near Jacmel, and the electric power plant was wrecked when the dam burst. Food, medicine, and other relief supplies were rushed from Port Au Prince abroad the Standard steamer Truxton.

FORD ANNOUNCES NEW LINCOLN CAR

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 28—Henry Ford today entered the intermediate price field in the automobile industry by announcing a new Lincoln model. Ford, long dominant in the low priced car field by his Fords and in the expensive class by his Lincoln, apparently followed the lead of the Packard Motor company which earlier this year had announced a smaller edition of its big cars in the $1,200 price class.

Owners of Untagged Dogs Facing Court

Charles Schisler, living in the south end of the city, arranged to pay $5 and costs assessed Monday morning by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, for failure to purchase a dog tag. Harry Riffle, county dog warden, reported four other persons had been ordered to appear Tuesday on the same charge.

MILLER WIELDS HAMMER, TO FACE COUNTY JURORS

Mose Miller, colored, E. Corwin-st., was bound to the grand jury under $2,000 bond Monday morning by Mayor W. B. Cady on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Police charge Miller struck Ernest Fairman, white, Fulton-st., Columbus, a blow on the head with a hammer during an altercation at Miller's home Saturday night. Officers said they found Fairman unconscious in the yard when they arrived.

He was taken to Berger hospital for treatment.

SNEAK THIEF VISITS FRATERNITY HOUSE

GRANVILLE, Oct. 28—A sneak thief with a sense of humor was sought today in the robbery of Beta Theta Pi fraternity's Denison chapter. Few weeks ago the Beta house came through unscratched when four other fraternities were robbed of $200.

The burglar who took $55 in cash Saturday night, left the Betas this note: "Well, I got your blessed old Beta house. Thought you were nokie, Hah."

BOUND TO JURY

J. C. Arledge, 39, city, denied an assault and battery charge in police court Monday and was bound to the grand jury under $200 bond by Mayor Cady. He was unable to furnish bond. The charge resulted from a dispute in a downtown alley between Court and Scioto-sts. Police said Ruth Eskett, N. Scioto-st. and Samuel Caldwell, living north of the city, were given suspended fines of $5 and costs for disorderly conduct.

So far, the average communicant seems to be living up to at least the last part of its name.

FISH MAY JOIN G. O. P. CONTEST

New York Congressman Sees Republican Chance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—A free-for-all battle for the Republican nomination for the presidency was threatened today as Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York weighed entrance into every important primary contest in the country.

The New York representative, whose friends have boomed him as a leader in the fight against the Roosevelt administration next year, admitted that he may enter primary contests.

The action would force other tacit Republican candidates into the open, and perhaps disrupt the plans of some Republican leaders for unopposed delegates to the 1936 convention.

"I haven't said that I would be a candidate for the nomination," Fish explained today.

"If I am a candidate, however, I will enter primary contests."

Despite the positive announcement of Maryland friends that he would file as a candidate in that state in a bid for delegates to the national convention, Fish insisted that his plans have not finally been determined.

After speaking in every part of the country in the last three months, however, Fish is confident that the Republicans have a good chance to oust the Roosevelt administration next year. A progressive candidate and a progressive platform are needed, he believes.

An ex-service man, with 16 years in congress Fish has been hammering away at the Roosevelt administration throughout the west.

DEPUTY MARSHAL SLAIN BY ASSASSIN

CUSTER SENT TO STEUBENVILLE TO OPEN INQUIRY

Deputy Prevatt Found in Alley Shot in Head; Hands in Pockets

TO NAME SUSPECTS

Nolan, Democratic Chief, Says Politics Might Have Caused Murder

Deputy U. S. Marshall Bryan Custer, W. High-st., former deputy sheriff, today had been instructed by Marshal R. Kenneth Kerr to hurry to Steubenville to hunt the murderer of another deputy marshal, Lubin S. Prevatt, 40, who was waylaid and shot to death by an unidentified assassin as he walked along a street early Monday.

Marshal Kerr was enroute to Steubenville from his home in Wilmington.

The shooting took place on Wells-st. in a district known as "The Hole," scene of numerous gang disorders.

His body was discovered by a colored man who reported finding the deputy marshal dead on the street with his hands in his pockets, indicating there had been no struggle.

Caught Unawares

Apparently the assassin caught Prevatt unawares, placed a gun near his head and fired, police said.

Prevatt's superior, Marshall Kerr was notified by telephone in Wilmington of the deputy's death.

Possibility that Steubenville's bitter mayoralty campaign in which Prevatt actively interested himself in behalf of the Democratic candidate, Earl D. Applegate, was seen by John F. Nolan, Jefferson-co central committee chairman and personal friend of the slain deputy marshal.

Planned, Says Nolan

"There is no doubt in my mind but that the shooting was a deliberately planned murder and a direct outgrowth of the campaign," said Nolan.

To Name Suspects

Chairman Nolan indicated he will appear before Prosecutor Arthur Hooper and name suspects.

Prevatt became deputy marshal for the district last February, succeeding John Quigley. He came from Tennessee and at one time served as a mail policeman for the Wheeling Steel Corporation.

Coroner Charles Wells said an inquest would be opened during the day.

Deputy Marshal Prevatt had been active in liquor law enforcement, being responsible for scores of arrests in this region and the confiscation of many gallons of illicit liquor.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 28.—The investigation into the mysterious shooting of U. S. Deputy Marshal L. S. Prevatt is to be conducted by the Cincinnati bureau of the U. S. Department of Justice, it was revealed here today.

Declaring "we have jurisdiction in the killing of a federal officer while he is in the performance of duty," local department officials stated they have already sent operatives to Steubenville, scene of the crime, in an effort to learn complete details of the killing, the establishment of a motive, and other necessary facts which are as yet unknown.

ADKINS' CAR IN ACCIDENT

The car of Joseph W. Adkins Jr., attorney, was reported badly damaged in an auto accident Saturday evening between Lima and Delphos. Only meager reports of the mishap were received by Judge Adkins, his father. It was not believed Joseph was injured.

He was enroute to Defiance to spend the week-end.

ROOSEVELT CITES JOB INCREASES

Roosevelt making address

Urging the public to continue contributions to private charities to remove the relief burden from the government and hailing a 5,000,000 gain in employment since his inauguration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is pictured above at the White House making a radio address on behalf of the 1935 Mobilization for Human Needs. The president said the September increase in employment was the greatest of any single month in the last year and a half and asserted the payrolls of reporting private industries were at May, 1931, level.

Deny Davey to "Promote" Bittering to Poulson Job

Rumors Persist Despite Denials; Hint Plan to "Retire" Governor

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Official sources today scouted rumors that Governor Davey plans a shake-up in the leadership of his personally-organized state Democratic executive committee to place J. Freer Bittering, Ashland, speaker of the House, at the helm, but the reports persisted.

Prominent Ohio Democrats, not too friendly to the governor freely predicted "off the record," that Davey has some plan of strategy in mind to attempt to stave off what they claim seems to be certain defeat either at the May primary or the election next fall.

Doubt Retirement

They doubted that he will retire from the race, as the Ohio Republican Editorial association suggested in an official statement Saturday. But they did admit there is strong possibility that he may attempt to win back many prominent Democratic leaders who left the fold when Francis W. Poulson was hand-picked as state chairman, by replacing Poulson with Bittering.

The Ashland man has been careful in his political maneuvering since coming to the force in state politics, they suggested, in order to avoid incurring the enmity of any faction within the party.

He was given the important job of interviewing applicants for state patronage by Davey when he was named to a vice presidency of the state executive committee.

The G. O. P. editorial writers ventured the opinion the national administration, none too friendly toward the Davey regime in Ohio, may attempt some political "hacking" to force the Kent executive to voluntarily retire from the primary race for renomination.

Few observers, however, believe Davey could be forced out of the race, despite the growing effort of leaders within his own party to defeat him for the nomination for a second term, seldom resorted to in the party.

There were many here today who believed Davey may bring in to the race another candidate for governor to split up opposition.

JAPAN DEFIES LEAGUE ORDER

Refuses to Give Data Concerning Islands

GENEVA, Oct. 28.—Japan defied the League of Nations today when she was called before the league's mandates commission to answer charges that Japanese mandated islands in the Pacific had been fortified.

Determined to hold the islands although no longer a member of the league, Japan will refuse to give the commission the requested detailed explanation of expenditures on the islands, contenting herself, instead, with a general, formal denial of the accusation.

"Stories of fortifications and naval bases on the islands are ridiculous," Nobufumi Ito, minister of Poland and Japanese representative on the commission, told International News Service coincidentally with the hearing.

"All our expenditures there have been for commercial purposes," he referred particularly to islands in the Ladrone group, situated directly on the main cable and shipping routes between the United States and Hawaii and the Philippines, and near Guam.

Members of the league commission had alleged that port facilities were being established there far beyond the commercial needs of the islands.

ITALIANS BEGIN GENERAL DRIVE ON ETHIOPIANS

Bomb Harar as Troops Begin March On All Fronts; Advance Steady

CAPITAL IS AFRAID

Transit of Arms to Principals Through Switzerland Is Refused

By International News Service

Italian bombing planes bombed the Ethiopian telegraph station at the important city of Harar, according to dispatches today to the Italian press, which looked for a general Italian advance on all fronts during the day to mark the thirteenth anniversary of the fascist march on Rome.

The Italians made a steady advance southward from Eritrea, and on the southern front their planes flew far to the north to bomb Sassah Baneh, important post not far from the British Somaliland border and located far along the route to Harar from the south.

In Addis Ababa, where the Ethiopian government denied Harar had been bombed, there were fears the capital itself would be bombed as a result of the departure of the expelled Italian minister.

The British Labor party warned the public that the British government might embark on a program of military sanctions and "war-like intentions" as soon as the Nov. 14 general elections is held.

The federal council also agreed to limit imports from Italy to the

TWO ARRESTED IN AUTO THEFT

Mt. Sterling, Ky. Corn-huskers Caught with Car

Two peanut munching corn huskers from Mt. Sterling, Ky., gave officers of two counties and state highway patrolmen a thrilling auto chase early Sunday.

The men, James Winsfield and Pete Adams, both 23, are held in the county jail awaiting hearings, on charges of stealing the Ford Coach of Robert Peters, N. Court-st.

The car was stolen from a parking space at Valley View about 1

Winsfield and Adams were bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond each shortly before noon today by H. O. Ewald, justice of peace. Neither could furnish bond.

a. m. County officers say the men abandoned a 1927 Buick sedan, license 8415 T taken from Marion at Valley View, went into the inn and purchased some peanuts, and drove away in the car of Mr. Peters.

Sheriff Radcliff was notified of the theft and broadcast the information over the state radio system. Ross-co officers chased the car but were unable to overtake it. The auto was finally stopped in Waverly by State Patrolmen Oder and Raquet.

Sheriff Radcliff, Deputy Earl Weaver and Mr. Peters went to Chillicothe and obtained the car after it had been returned there by the state patrolmen.

The men were "going home" in the borrowed cars, officers reported.

SUPREME COURT SETS DEC. 9 FOR AAA ARGUMENT

Decision Expected Early in January on Crop Control Program

MILL IS PLAINTIFF

Four Major Issues Now Before High Tribunal For Decisions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The Supreme court today set the AAA processing tax test case for oral argument on Dec. 9, thus making possible a decision early in January.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed urged argument on Nov. 20, while counsel for receivers of the Hoosac mills which attacked the processing tax successfully in lower courts, suggested Dec. 9.

Argument Not Ready

The high court apparently was impressed by the statement of counsel for receivers that they could not prepare to argue such an important case before December.

The whole fate of the Roosevelt farm program—which now is listed as a permanent reform—will hang on the decision.

The high court agreed to rule on constitutionality of condemnation proceedings by the Roosevelt administration in carrying out its huge low-cost housing and slum clearance program.

Action was taken in granting the government's petition for review of an adverse decision of the sixth circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati in a Louisville, Ky., case.

Four Laws Aired

By the court's action the total of cases involving emergency laws of the Roosevelt administration was raised to four. Others involve the AAA processing taxes, Bankhead cotton act, and the TVA.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET TUESDAY

Two Committees to Hear Bittering at Country Club

One hundred of Pickaway-co's leading Democrats will gather at the Pickaway Country club Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. for their first get-together meeting of the year.

The meeting will include members of the central and executive committees with George G. Adkins, chairman of the latter organization, in charge. The committee arranging the meeting includes John S. Ritt, K. J. Herrmann and L. J. Johnson.

The highlight of the evening will be an address by J. Freer Bittering, speaker of the house of representatives, and one of Ohio's leading Democrats. An administration man, Bittering is expected to speak concerning the problems faced by the legislature and the state government.

It is also probable that Cecil W. Briggs, chairman of the central committee, will announce his resignation at this meeting since he has been named acting postmaster for New Holland. A successor would be named by the central group.

The purpose of the meeting is to bring the two committees closer together in their effort to retain the approximately 1,800 majority Democratic party holds in Pickaway-co.

COUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Slowly mounting returns today in corn-hog poll from seven Ohio counties, participating in the nation-wide referendum, indicated an overwhelming majority of the state's producers were in favor of continuing the program.

Discloses Figures

J. W. Wutche, state agent in charge of the Ohio referendum, said early returns from Hardin, Harrison, Hocking, Jefferson, Meigs, Muskingum, and Richland counties showed 1,582 farmers were in favor of continuing the program while 187 polled "no."

Of the total retention votes in the seven counties, 111 producers, who at present are not contract-signers, voted for retention. Present contract-signers who voted to continue the program totaled 1,471.

SHERIFF WARNS OF BAD CHECKS

Radcliff's Action Follows Reports of Many Counties

Sheriff Charles Radcliff issued a warning Monday to local merchants to be on the lookout for bad checks.

Sherriffs of several adjoining counties notified the local sheriff they have had a large number of bad checks during the last two weeks and attempts would probably be made to invade Pickaway-co.

The sheriff also asked county residents to cooperate with his department in checking thefts throughout the county. In many instances where thefts have been reported by farmers, autoists have failed to take the tag numbers. The sheriff asked autoists to obtain license numbers of suspicious cars parked along county roads and give them to the department for investigation.

NEWARK POLICE CLAIM GANG'S KILLERS KNOWN

Woman Witness Guarded After Giving Information

NEWARK, Oct. 28.—Local police believe they know the identities of the killers of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenhimer and three of his henchmen.

Moreover they believe the slayers are "hiding out" in a rendezvous several miles from Atlantic City.

This was revealed this morning as six high police officials, armed with secret information provided by a young woman eye-witness to the shooting of Schultz and his aides, sped southward in an effort to surprise the suspects in their lair.

The woman who furnished the information was visiting the bartender in the palace chop house on Wednesday night and was seated in a darkened corner, sipping a glass of beer when the gunmen entered and opened fire on the four New York gangsters.

Identify Guarded

Her identity and home are being guarded against publicity as a protective measure. She had been taken to the Newark police line-up yesterday and she viewed numerous underworld characters from behind a mask. She was unable to identify any of the men who paraded before her, but after secret questioning she is thought to have furnished the clue police had been seeking since the shootings.

The men who are enroute south to follow up the clue are Prosecutor Wathenfeld of Essex-co, two members of his staff, two officers assigned by Deputy Police Chief John Haller and a New York detective.

Another woman in the case also was scheduled to be questioned today. She is the red-haired Frances Maxwell, who claims to have been Schultz's first wife, and whose answers to questions the day after the shooting left police unsatisfied.

They will attempt to clear away "contradictions" in her account of her whereabouts the night of the shootings. She had admitted she saw Schultz that day to bring him some papers and then left for the movies.

Checking Story

Her inquisitors say she could not recall the name of the picture she saw. Other reputed uncertainties in her statements are to be

"Ape Man" is Hunted as Brutal Attack of Woman

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Police were without a single clue today as they pressed their search for the brutal "ape man" attacker of Mrs. Rose London, pretty 30-year-old red-head.

An examination of the drain pipe up which her attacker had climbed hand-over-hand, ape fashion, to gain entrance to her second floor hotel room, failed to reveal any finger prints.

Likewise, a thorough examination of the hotel room and the two-foot length of iron pipe with which the "ape man" had brutally beaten the woman, failed to disclose finger prints.

Police sought to learn the identity of a man said by hotel employees to be about 55 years of age and about five feet seven inches tall, who accompanied Mrs. London to the hotel. They parted in the lobby after the man asked her to call him some time. He had been a fellow bus passenger, a porter at the bus terminal told police.

Woman Near Death

The victim, wife of Jack London, prosperous San Diego, Cal., grocer, was near death today, her skull fractured and her body a mass of bruises.

The brutal assault was discovered by hotel employees yesterday when Mrs. London failed to answer a call. Breaking down the door to her room, they found her unconscious on the floor. Her black pajamas had been ripped from her body in the struggle with her assailant. Blood covered the bed, floor and was smeared on the walls. Her two purses, opened and empty, were on the floor. The window of the room was open.

Mrs. London regained consciousness at the hospital, told police she had not seen her attacker.

"I went to bed just after midnight," she said, "and woke up here. I don't know what happened."

Police said they believed robbery was the motive. Thirty-eight dollars was missing from Mrs. London's purses.

She arrived here Saturday, she told police, and was enroute to New York to visit her brother, A. J. Ross, druggist, who had been ill.

DR. TOWNSEND EXPLAINS HIS PENSION PLAN

6,000 Leave for Homes After Their Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Some 6,000 men and women were enroute to their homes today convinced that the Townsend plan "is the missing link" of the country's economic salvation.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, retired Long Beach, Cal., physician and author of the pension plan which would give every man and woman over 60 years of age $200 a month, closed his organization's first national convention here yesterday with an explanation of his plan.

The physician declared that this country has an adequate system of production and a great consuming public, unable to buy because it has no money, and that this gap must be filled.

"The Townsend plan is the missing link," he told the elderly delegates from Townsend clubs throughout the country.

Eight Million Qualify

He estimated there are 8,000,000 persons who would qualify for the pension.

Under his proposed system, he said, everybody would fall into three classifications. Youth would prepare itself for useful citizenship; the adult class would produce the wealth, and the aged would do the heavy spending.

Funds to pay the pension, he said, would be raised by a universal two per cent transactions tax, to be levied on all business.

The convention resolved to make the nation's youth converts to the Townsend cause, declaring youth "is getting disillusioned from inability to find employment and its proper place in the social structure."

H. E. Clements, national secretary of the organization, said: "Youth will have its birthright of opportunity under the Townsend plan."

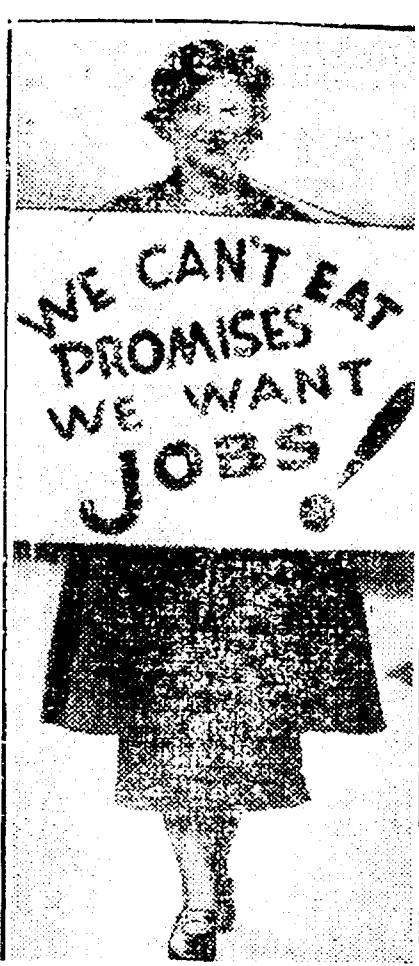

Before adjournment Dr. Clinton Wunder, New York Townsend club chief, called for voluntary contributions:

All "Chip In"

"Let's show how we feel by chipping in so that the organization gets a tidy little sum. Dig deep! We've all got to give to get something."

U. S. TAKES NO OATH TO BACK LEAGUE ACTION

Promises, However, to Use Influence for Peace

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—America today stood "free and unentangled" inssofar as any sanctions commitments to the League of Nations were concerned. The American reply to the League's virtual request for an indication as to how far this government might be prepared to go in backing league action against Italy was to be delivered today to the league's committee on coordination by American Minister Hugh R. Wilson.

The American reply contained no promises or commitments, but merely declared that "in keeping with the letter and spirit of the pact of Paris and other peace obligations," this government would undertake at all times "not only to exercise its moral influence in favor of peace throughout the world, but to contribute in every practicable way within the limitations of our foreign policy, to that end."

Request Ignored

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in drafting the reply, completely ignored the implied request from the league as to how far this government might be prepared to go in backing league sanctions against Italy.

He said this government viewed "with sympathetic interest" the individual or concerted efforts of other nations to preserve peace or "to localize and shorten the duration of war," but he refrained from any promises as to the extent to which this government would go in cooperating with such efforts.

He left the question of American cooperation with the league's peace efforts open and in a state where this government maintained its position of complete freedom of action in European political squabbles.

The view still prevailed that it was up to the league to wait and see how effective its own sanctions proved before commencing to worry about American trade or interests interfering with the effectiveness of such sanctions.

Meanwhile, Secretary Hull turned his attention to the forthcoming

This action and the banning of export of arms and war materials to the belligerents, eased fears of league circles as to what attitude Switzerland would take toward cooperation with the League of Nations.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 28.—British troops in Egypt now number 50 to 60 per cent above normal, according to reliable independent estimates, but even with the withdrawal of 15,000 Italian soldiers from Libya, the British forces are still overwhelmingly outnumbered.

The arrival during the last few days of three battalions of infantry totaling 2500 men brought the British strength nearly to 18,000.

Half of the new infantry today is establishing camp at Sidhishir, near Alexandria, a post unused since the World war. The others have gone to Ismailia, half way to the canal.

TAR CAUSES CHURCH FIRE

Presbyterian Building in Lancaster Flames Scene

LANCASTER, Oct. 28.—Fire caused damage estimated at $10,000 to the First Presbyterian church here Saturday afternoon. The majority of the damage was to the Sunday school annex.

The blaze started when tar, used in repairing the roof, boiled over and ignited. Many valuable records and pieces of furniture in the building were saved but the pipe organ was ruined. The loss was covered by insurance.

The church was originally known as the "Hock Hocking" church and was erected on a site chosen by Rev. John Wright, Pennsylvania, who came to Ohio in 1802 and established the church in 1806. The present structure was built in 1892.

The congregation held services Sunday in the Lancaster high school auditorium, offered by the board of education.

EMU UNPOPULAR

PERTH, Western Australia.—Wheat farmers have asked the government to send troops or machine-guns to Western Australia—to flight the Emu, that favorite of cross-word puzzlers. At a special meeting of the Bonny Rock branch of the wheat growers' union it was stated that the position was now, owing to the ravages of the Emu, much more serious than three years ago, when hundreds of acres of crops were ruined.

IL DUCE BEGINS ANOTHER YEAR

Makes 9-Word Speech to 70,000 Fascists in Rome

ROME, Oct. 28.—With a nine-word speech, Premier Mussolini today stirred to cheering enthusiasm a crowd of 70,000 Fascists packing Piazza Venezia on the 13th anniversary of the march on Rome.

"We initiate with the same courage the 14th year," Mussolini shouted from the balcony of his Palazzo Venezia, then turned on his heel and disappeared.

Apart from his short manifestation, an atmosphere of almost sullen determination hung over Rome during the anniversary.

All public buildings and most private houses flew the national flag, and more civilians than ever before put on the traditional black shirts and sported the Fascist party emblem in their lapels, but the air of frantic jubilation and blaring bands of former years was markedly absent.

Nevertheless, the tremendous crowd assembled before Mussolini's headquarters under a overcast sky, shivering and shuffling and stamping their feet to keep warm, hoping that Il Duce would show himself.

Suddenly he appeared, held up his arm for silence, spoke, and vanished, to the waving of a sea of handkerchiefs and cries of "Viva Il Duce!"

The speech was in keeping with Mussolini's idea of "action, not words," and epitomized his determination to go ahead resolutely in Ethiopia and to combat "with discipline" the economic sanctions of the League of Nations that are now regarded as inevitable.

PHILADELPHIA.—Zoo officials, astounded by the action on one of the garden's penguin flock in laying an egg, are hoping against hope that a chick will be hatched. *How Chemistry of Life
Maintains Body Balance*

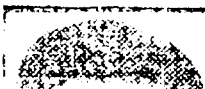

B. LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The true philosophic mind, the most beautiful thing about nature is its balance.

The chemistry of life in the plants balances exactly the chemistry of life in the animals. One does not food. We do not utilize the nitrogen that is in the air—the nitrogen is expired air is the same as that of inspired air. It is a very inert chemical. The nitrogen that is cast off is mostly in the form of urea, excreted in the kidneys.

The nitrogenous constituents may be maintained at much different levels, depending on circumstances. If the nitrogen in the soil is low, the nitrogen cast out becomes low and vice versa.

Dr. Clondering When we come to analyze the balance that keeps this delicate organism poised in nature—kept there by the continuing force that sustains the force we can handle, but not define life—we find many. I have indicated some of them in other articles this week. One is energy balance—the production of enough heat and mechanical energy in the form of muscular movement to maintain the integrity of the organism in the face of the destructive forces of the outside universe.

There are other balances, however, that are tissue balances. The most important of these is the nitrogenous equilibrium of the body—the balance of the amount of nitrogen which enters and the amount cast off by the body.

This is basic because nitrogen is the element that enters into the chemistry of the living substance, protoplasm, and makes it what it is. We take nitrogen into the body entirely in the form of nitrogen in the equilibrium is essential to life.

How low can the intake of nitrogen be and still be compatible with life? We know of the experiments of Huddell, in Copenhagen, who maintained a laboratory worker on a diet of potatoes and margarine. He had to eat a large amount of this monotonous diet and even so it was found he was only obtaining 30 grams of protein a day.

Most of us live four or five times this amount, and as a result, most of our nitrogenous intake is waste. It is instructive, however, to see how quickly and completely the nitrogenous balance is restored by the body as the nitrogenous intake goes up.

North had nicely prepared the way for the final squeeze. East had supported spades once, but North noted that East had originally held 5 of her partner's suit, and she might have hid 2-Spades on that ground, combined with the fact that she held doubletons in both hearts and clubs. SUPT. M'DOWELL HONORED BY CENTRAL OHIO TEACHERS

Local Man to Preside over Meeting in October, 1936

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway-co. schools, was honored at the Central Ohio Teachers' association meeting in Dayton Friday and Saturday by being elected president of the County, Village and Rural Superintendents' section.

Mr. McDowell will prepare the program and preside over the meeting in Columbus the last Friday in October, 1936.

A number of Pickaway-co. teachers attended the association meeting and reported much good derived from the addresses.

War is Condemned

Six district school conventions, concluded Saturday with passage of resolutions condemning war and urging legislation for a school foundation program and adequate teacher job tenure.

In Cleveland the Northwestern Ohio Teachers' association closed its meeting with an address by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, of the University of Wisconsin, who defended government regulation of business.

Penalties Are Approved

Other speakers at the northeastern sessions were Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college, who advocated application of penalties to Italy because of the Ethiopian conflict; Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school; Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Dr. William Kilpatrick of Columbia university.

Northwestern Teachers, Meeting at Toledo, were Urged by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, President of the University of Chicago, to revise educational functions to meet modern requirements.

They, too, heard Dr. Woolley, and followed her address with a resolution asking America to support the League of Nations in efforts toward peace.

Against Stream Pollution

In addition to the anti-war resolution, teachers of the southwest group at Cincinnati, also voted in favor of a movement to eliminate pollution of the Ohio river, and decided education should include study of social, economic and political problems. Walton B. Bliss, of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Education association, told the teachers there would be available $3 more per pupil in Ohio schools next year. He said present revenue from the state per pupil was $26.75.

Southeastern educators in closing their sessions at Athens voted for restoration of all school functions stopped by the depression, urged additional funds for free texts in poor districts, and sought a minimum graduated scale of pay for teachers.

At Dayton and Marietta, teacher assemblies likewise placed themselves on the side of peace, voting for patriotic education opposed to wars of aggression.

HUNDREDS DEAD IN HAITI STORM

American Pilot Flies Over Stricken Area

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 28.—An American airplane today succeeded in reaching the storm smitten Jeremie district, isolated for a week and brought back the official police estimate that at least 2,200 lives had been lost in the violent wind and rain that hammered the coast last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Two hundred were killed at Jacmel alone by a tidal wave and flooded rivers.

The flyer, E. K. Charlton, who was accompanied by a Haitian, Desire Paris, brought back a story of uprooted crops on the southwestern peninsula, houses splintered, leaving hundreds homeless and destitute. But the towns not so badly hit as the country districts.

Such was the fury of the rain-swollen streams that the center of a steel bridge was twisted away near Jacmel, and the electric power plant was wrecked when the dam burst.

Food, medicine, and other relief supplies were rushed from Port Au Prince aboard the Standard and steamer Truxton.

FISH MAY JOIN G. O. P. CONTEST

New York Congressman Sees Republican Chance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—A free-for-all battle for the Republican nomination for the presidency was threatened today as Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York weighed entrance into every important primary contest in the country.

The New York representative, whose friends have looked him up as a leader in the fight against the Roosevelt administration next year, admitted that he may enter primary contests.

The action would force other tacit Republican candidates into the open, and perhaps disrupt the plans of some Republican leaders for unopposed delegates to the 1936 convention.

"I haven't said that I would be a candidate for the nomination," Fish explained today.

"If I am a candidate, however, I will enter primary contests."

Despite the positive announcement of Maryland friends that he would file as a candidate in that state in a bid for delegates to the national convention, Fish insisted that his plans have not finally been determined.

After speaking in every part of the country in the last three months, however, Fish is confident that the Republicans have a good chance to oust the Roosevelt administration next year. A progressive candidate and a progressive platform are needed, he believes.

An ex-service man, with 16 years in congress Fish has been hammering away at the Roosevelt administration throughout the west.
